A Large Force of Police Protects a Pro-Boer Meeting.

The Gathering to Protest Against the Concentration System in South Africa Searly Broken Up by a Moh -ballour Defends the Camps.

LONDON, June 19 .- A meeting was held in Queen's Hall tonight to protest against the alleged horrors of the wo men's and children's refuge camps in South Africa. Henry Labouchere presided. Mr. Sauer, formerly a member of the Cape Colony Ministry, made a vigorous speech.

There was considerable disorder. Political agents had been canvassing the London hospitals and members of the stock exchange within the last few days, in-viting muscular and medical men to attend the meering. Posters announcing the meeting were displayed throughout the city. These were headed, "Patriots, Take Heed," The names of those announced to speak included Dr. Cavin Brown Clark, the ex-member of Parliament, and former Consul General of the Transvaal, who, in the autumn of 1899, advised the Boers to occupy the Natal passes as the first operation of the war.

These who were opposed to such a meeting contended that there was no other city in the world which would have permitted such a demonstration while bloodshed was still in progress, and that therefore the police should have prevented its being held.

Conservative papers in their Issues today invited citizens to break up the meet-ing. The "Globe" said: "We trust that the friends of the enemy will be made to see how foolish it is to try to hold such a meeting in London

All the tickets for the meeting were sold out. The holders of the meeting engaged 500 to 800 stewards to be in attendance at 6:30 p. m. The jingo newspapers described these men as gas stokers and navvies, who were chosen more for muscle than

Up to 8 o'clock the meeting was uneventful. Long before 7 o'clock the doors were closed and no one, whether with or without a ticket, was allowed to enter the Queen's Hall. A large crowd thronged the street and the adjacent thoroughfares but both sides of the street were lined with police standing shoulder to shoulder and a large posse patroiled the middle of the road, making everyone

The disappointed mob banged doors, sang "God Save the King," "Rule Britannia," etc., and cheered constantly. A heavy rain exerted a pacifying influence. Before the doors were closed there was a bad rush. The doors were thrown back violently and the glass panels smashed. Many persons suffered contusions from kicks and blows and some needed surgical assistance. Several women fainted and they will be at the mercy of any sea were rescued with difficulty. grave consequences which were at one time threatened. This would not have been so but for the presence of the police, hundreds of whom, mounted and afoot, prevented the crowd, which was estimated at from 12,000 to 15,000, from rushing lato the hall. Had the crowd succeeded in doing this, there would unquestionably have been a serious riot. As it was, the speakers got a hearing, although they were constantly and noisily interrupted by a considerable minority of those present. There were frequent ejections by the stewards who gradually thinned the opponents of the meeting out, and finally the majority carried resolutions condemning the Government for its policy in South Africa, and demanding that an immediate offer of terms of peace be made to the Boers, this offer to include a promise of complete independence.

Meanwhile there was considerable disorder outside the hall, and in spite of the rain, thousands of persons stood cheering for Earl Roberts, General Kitchener, Secretary Chamberlain, and Lord Milner. They waved flags and constantly tried to rush into the hall. The police charged the mob a number of times, and several persons were injured.

Just beiere the meeting closed the police pushed the crowd back and cleared all approaches to the ball. In this way the speakers and audience were able to leave without being molested except by hooting from the crowd.

Mr. Merriman, one of the Cape anti-war delegates, was unable to be present, ow-

Mr. Balfour said that naturally it was the desire of everybody that these people should possess every comfort, but it was an absolute military necessity to clear certain parts of the country. This could only be done by removing provisions and stock from farms and leaving the women and children to starve or taking them to fith food and shelter. These recessities had been provided the most difficult circumstances, a great army on two or three single lines of rallway, which the husbands and brothers of mediately, and with facility? Was the Government to be blamed for not giving those who were lighting for Great Brit-

It was scandalous and shocking, Mr. Balfour declared, that under the circumstances the British soldiers should be accused of carrying on this war by barbarous methods.

CONDITIONS IN THE CAMPS.

A Report Made by the "London Times? Correspondent.

LONDON, June 20 .- The correspondent of the "Times" at Bloemfontein sends a ong report in regard to the concentration amps, covering the period up to the end of May, when there were 24,800 refugees n these places. He admits that when the mps were started the conditions were somewhat unsatisfactory" owing to the magnitude of the undertaking. He adds, however, that everything possible is be ng done now in dealing with the matter, The correspondent says in regard to the mortality in these camps that the verage rate was 116.76 per 1,000. He elds this may seem high, but many renons have conduced to this rate, which is now decreasing rapidly. The Boers have never been used to living together a large numbers and they are absolutely without appreciation of the necessity of saultary cleanliness. The women also take small care of their children. He continues: "Another Important point to remember s that a large percentage of those who arrived in the camps were absolutely ruined in health by the rigors of the later phases of the campaign, and the severity of the weather at once found out these constitutions.

The correspondent says that for housing these people 4,514 tents were provided and £2,250 was spent in Bloemfontein in providing wood and iron shelters. More than £1,800 was expended for clothing and 15,000 blankets were distributed. The magnitude of the task of feeding these people, the correspondent says, is shown by the fact that eighty-eight tons of foodstuffs were imported for the refugees weekly, despite the heavy military requirements on the railway

Schools have been established in the camps and education is conducted in English. Attendance is voluntary, but all parents have shown an alacrity in having their children educated. Up to May 31, £58,300 had been spent in maintaining the camps. There were also nine camps of native refugees and colored people.

BARKER'S STORY RELATED

NEW YORK, June 19.- The defence in

Rev. John Keller, in Arlington, N. J., which went to pieces so completely under the objections of the prosecutor of the pleas and the rulings of the court on Tuesday afternoon, took a fresh hold today and succeeded in getting in some evidence. Barker himself, who was temporarily withdrawn from the witness stand by his counsel, was recalled today and told at length the story of the shooting and as much as the court would let him of the causes which led to the act. In his examination, as well as in that of Mrs. Barker, and even in that of Dr. Evans, the insanity expert, Mr. Van Winkle, tried by every device known, to get in, even if it were in an abridged form. the story of the alleged assault on Mrs. Barker by Mr. Keller, that is supposed few days ago. The affair occurred at to have formed the motive for Barker's crime. But it was no use. Judge Blair quickly and sharply ruled out everything that bore on this point just as he had done, yesterday with such disastrous consequences to Mr. Barker's lawyers' scheme of defence.

But even then, apparently, they did not despair. Almost the very last question that was asked at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, just before court adjourned, consequently was excluded, While Not in the Best of Health, He Feels Equal to the Campaign-Attempts to Bring Out Other Candi-s dates Futile-Pledged to Foraker.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 19 .- Governor, Nash has not the slightest intention of refusing the renomination which will be tendered next Tuesday by the Republican State convention, notwithstanding reports to the contrary. As a matter of fact, the Governor put in a busy day at the executive chamber, and in addition to transacting the routine business of the office spent ome time in the preparation of his speech-of acceptance. The only possible ground for anyone's supposing that he would lay aside his ambition to achieve a second term, which has been accorded to all Republican Governors. whose administrations have been acceptable to their party, was the condition of slight cerebral hemorrhage while croclared to Mr. Merriwether, when the lat- on the return from the launching of the battleship Ohio, at San Francisco, and not yet recovered from the effects of oak poisoning in California, he reached home

He had to decline this invitation, and he thinks that had the attack come while riding in the engine cab, with the accompaniment of swaying and rocking about the sharp mountain curves, the seizure would have been much more serious, if not fatal. As it was, however, he recovered so rapidly as to astonish his physicians, and today, while not a strong man, he feels fit to enter upon an arduous campaign. During all the time of the Governor's illness he was confident of speedy recovery and never hinted to anyone the possibility of his declining a renomination

MOLINEUX'S APPEAL CLOSED.

Departures in His Argument. BUFFALO, N. Y., June 19.-Argument in the Court of Appeals on the Molineux case was closed at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon. David B. Hill enlivened the proceedings with three remarkable departures. He asserted that the overshadowing question for the Court of Appeals to decide was whether the defendant was really guilty of the crime charged. He read a culogistic and personal estimate of each of the judges of the Court of Appeals, now hearing this appeal, describing the methods and characteristics of each as deduced from opinions written by them. He dismissed Justice Fursman's decision in the Kennedy case, saying it was all in error, and looked as If some one had prepared it for him. Ex-Senator Hill concluded at 1:15 o'clock, and Mr. Milburn began his reply. It was perhaps a disqualification for him, he said, that he had been accustomed to argue cases before the Court of Appeals on the exceptions that came up to the court. He did not resent Mr. Hill's methods, but he wanted to plead that his own habits would not allow him to present the case as Mr.

Hill had done. "If I am challenged to express my opinion of the guilt or innocence of this defendant, I am prepared to do it," said Mr. Milburn, sharply, turning so that he faced ex-Senator Hill directly: "But I say that is not the question I am arguing be-fore this court. That question is not raised by this record, a record three-fourths of which consists of Hegal and improper testimony."

Mr. Millburn's lime soon expired, and the court promptly took up the next case.
